Discussion with filmmakers Paco de Onis and Pamela Yates, and former Peruvian Truth and Reconciliation Commissioner, Sofia Macher to follow.

State of Fear is a gripping and beautifully crafted story that brings to life the disturbing revelations of Peru's Truth Commission detailing a 20-year reign of terror. It begins in 1980 with the armed insurgency, Shining Path, whose violence was met with equal brutality from Peru's government. The film examines the human and societal cost of the conflict and of the government's repressive "war on terror." The film provides important lessons for a world grappling with the problem of stability in the face of terror.

This event is cosponsored by the Council on Foundations, Grantmakers in Film and Electronic Media, Hispanics in Philanthropy, International Funders for Indigenous People, National Network of Grantmakers and International Human Rights Funders Group.
